ART IN WARFARE.

Color Schemes Used to Deceive the Eyes of the Enemy.

Early in the great world war the young painters in France formed what they called the Battalion de la Camouflage, a battalion whose duties consist of "making up" guns, autos, shelters and even whole landscapes to deceive the enemy's eyes—the aeroplanes. They impart to a munition depot the innocent appearance of a prairie. The 79's under their hands take on the semblance of old trees. Tree trunks and old carts are transfigured by these artists into formidable batteries on which the hostile fire may spend itself. They color the autos to resemble roads or fields.

The grand chief of the Camouflage is the celebrated decorator Porain, who earned his war cross at the front. Nor is this work without its dangers. The camouflager must repeatedly ascend in balloons to judge the effect of his work or to decide on the necessary retouching to be done. He must sometimes advance ahead of the first lines during the night to take measurements which will permit him to imitate exactly a certain tree trunk or a part of a crumbled wall in No Man's Land, which must be copied, molded by clever sculptors and armored the same night to serve as shelters for observers.—Cartoons Magazine.

Japanned English.

A prominent merchant in Osaka, Japan, sent the following to an English firm:

Messrs.—We have much pleasure in requesting your latest catalogue of your products, price list and discount sheets. If it turns satisfactory we shall consider the question of the large orders. Now, our aim doing in this case is our first attempt to prepare ourselves to purchase of the products of the factory from makers instead of the broker of each side. We must beg your kind co-operation on this new movement. We are of opinion as well as our customers here that will probably be obliged to follow this new principle. Trusting that the result will be encouraging the further business, and remain, etc.

All organizations in Barre are to be asked to contribute to the support of a welfare worker in Barre and, in furtherance of this plan, all officers of unions, clubs, fraternal orders, churches and other social organizations are invited to attend a meeting to consider the matter in Aldrich memorial hall Monday evening at 7:45.

A crew of linemen working under the supervision of Supt. C. F. Miller of the M. & E. L. & P. Co., is engaged in a considerable wiring project at the Berlin street baseball park, where a carnival is to be held next week under the auspices of the Italian A. C. The lighting company is under contract to install a system which shall light the grounds with a myriad of incandescent lamps and it is expected that the installations will have been completed before Monday night.

The match game between the Barre Golf club and the Meadow Brook club, which was to be played to-day on the Meadow Brook course, has been called off on account of the grass being too long. A start has been made to cut it, but owing to the heavy rain all day yesterday, it could not be finished in time to play the match. The game will be played in the near future. All members of the Barre club are asked to be on hand at their own club house by 1:30 o'clock, as the committee is to arrange a match game between two picked teams. All wishing to enter, please turn out. Members only.

Among the guests arriving at Hotel Barre last night and this morning were the following people: Mr. and Mrs. Bailey, Mr. Wilson, H. E. Rolfe of St. Johnsbury, W. Cass of Richford, Charles A. Murphy of Plattsburg, Dr. L. R. Hill, I. Hill, F. LaMora of Concord, N. H., R. E. Fuller and family of Boston, W. A. Frost of Springfield, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Barnes of Burlington.

Lowell, Mass., police are holding Ernest Brothers for the local police department, although it developed yesterday that he is under arrest in the Massachusetts city for an alleged offense similar to the one which the Barre authorities claim he committed in this city last fall. When the local department asked the Lowell police to detain Brothers, it was learned that he was also wanted by them and upon his arrest he was held on the Massachusetts charge first. Yesterday he was given a preliminary hearing, according to a message received by Chief Constable this morning, and being unable to furnish bail of $400 for his appearance at a hearing July 5, he was remanded to jail. The Barre police allege that Brothers is guilty of the larceny of lead, paint and ladders.

Efforts to ascertain information that will shed light on the discovery of a bag of bones in the bushes by the river near the Harrison Granite Co.'s plant Thursday afternoon have not been successful thus far and the police and health authorities are no nearer a solution of the mystery than ever. It is generally believed that the bones are those of a child, who expired, whether naturally or not, soon after birth. Yesterday it was thought that the officers had found a lead in their hunt for information. Naturally the case led to River street and like many of the trails that head in the same direction it brought up against a wall in a blind alley. In other words nothing came of it and since then the police have grown accustomed to the thought that the mystery will remain unsolved.

SINGING IN ENGLISH.

The Difficulty of Sounding Certain Words on High Notes.

English as is commonly sung has become so hard to understand that musical authorities are earnestly seeking a remedy. And the composer is principally to blame, says Francis Toye, writing in the London Notes.

"That there are difficulties in singing certain English syllables on certain notes may be admitted," says Mr. Toye. "English, unlike German and Italian, is not predominantly a language of broad vowel sounds. It is awkward, for instance, to sing 'fir' or 'her' or 'sun' with a loud, sustained tone on a high note. But if composers knew their business they would not, save in any exceptional circumstances, ask the singer to do anything of the kind."

"Half the imaginary difficulties of singing English arise from the incompetence of many composers in setting it to music. They seem neither to think in terms of singing nor to study the natural rhythm of the language. When they do the 'problems' of singing in English vanish like the mist before the sun."

It Would.

"What kind of a dress would be most appropriate for a garden party?" "I think a lawn dress would."—Baltimore American.
